CENTENNIAL ALMANAC FOR 1883.

MARS IS THE RULING PLANET THIS YEAR.

THE YEAR IN GENERAL.—Under this planet the year is more dry than humid, and though there be frequent rains, yet it will be very dry.

SPRING.—In general will be dry, rough and cold, with frost until the first of May; hence the sheep should not be put on the grain and meadows, as they would do more injury than good.

SUMMER.—Mars occasions, above all other planets, a hot summer; and the heat of the Sun will be so great, that one can scarcely walk on the sand without shoes. The nights will be very warm and insufferable. Rivers, springs and wells will be very low.

FALL.—Will be more dry than humid, and grapes will yield much wine. Even if it does occasionally freeze in October, November will be warm throughout. There will be but little snow before the last of November.

WINTER.—Will be tolerably cold, dry, and changeable.

SPRING CROPS.—Barley sown in time on well manured land will yield well; but late sowing, on sand and heavy clay soil will produce little. All spring crops should be well covered. There will be but little oats, yet very good. Corn, buckwheat, rice, and tobacco will yield well. Potatoes, cabbage and turnips will be a medium crop. Hay and aftermath will be light, therefore sheep should be kept off the meadows.

FALL CROPS.—Rye will yield well, but wheat will be only a medium crop.

FALL SEEDING.—As the winter will set in late, early sowing will not be necessary.

FRUIT.—Pears will be a better crop than apples. Cherries and quinces will be very scarce. No acorns, and but few nuts.

GRAPE CULTURE.—Grapes will be abundant, and the wine good.

THUNDERSTORMS, TEMPESTS.—In this year there will be but few storms and rain, but heavy thunder.

INSECTS.—Snakes and grasshoppers will be very numerous.

FEETWASHING.

JOHN XIII, 2-17.

2. And supper being ended, the devil having now put into the heart of Judas Iscariot, Simon's son, to betray him ;

3. Jesus knowing that the Father had given all things into his hands, and that he was come from God, and went to God ;

4. He riseth from supper, and laid aside his garments ; and took a towel, and girded himself.

5. After that he poureth water into a basin, and began to wash the disciples' feet, and to wipe them with the towel wherewith he was girded.

6. Then cometh he to Simon Peter : and Peter saith unto him, Lord, dost thou wash my feet ?

7. Jesus answered and said unto him, what I do thou knowest not now ; but thou shalt know hereafter.

8. Peter saith unto him, Thou shalt never wash my feet. Jesus answered him, If I wash thee not, thou hast no part with me.

9. Simon Peter saith unto him, Lord, not my feet only, but also my hands and my head.

10. Jesus saith to him, He that is washed needeth not save to wash his feet, but is clean every whit : and ye are clean, but not all.

11. For he knew who should betray him ; therefore said he, Ye are not all clean.

12. So after he had washed their feet, and had taken his garments, and was set down again, he said unto them, Know ye what I have done to you ?

13. Ye call me Master and Lord ; and ye say well ; for so I am.

14. If I then, your Lord and Master, have washed your feet ; ye also ought to wash one another's feet.

15. For I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you.

16. Verily, verily, I say unto you, The servant is not greater than his lord ; neither he that is sent greater than he that sent him.

17. If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them.

THE FAMILY ALMANAC.

Of all the things in the shape of books and pamphlets or printed matter we do not suppose that there is any one thing so universally consulted as the Family Almanac. We would like to except the Bible, but fear we could not without doing violence to the truth. It, long ago, was voted one of the household necessities, and no family would think of getting along without one. At first thought, we may laugh at the idea of putting so much store on the Almanac, but try to do without one, or some of its parts, for a few weeks or a month, and we will be astonished to learn how much business and time arranging is connected with it. It is true, the sun and moon and stars would perform their revolutions just as well without our knowing the exact times of their risings, settings, and changings, but it often seems important that we know when the moon is "old" and "new", and when that mysterious thing called "sign" points up and down. But practically, much of our business is arranged by the Almanac, and should we get our "day calendars" confused our letters, notes, &c, would all be dated wrong, and our Sundays would all get mixed up. Then, who ever thought of going on a journey without first consulting the Almanac! Thanksgiving day, with all the other holidays are set by this "everybody's friend". Our systemized church appointments are all placed just where the calendar puts them, and before arranging to hold a series of meetings or a communion meeting, we must know when the moon is full, and how could we know this without the Almanac? Some farmers and rural housewives frequently make it answer for both their diary and their account book, so that by the time the year is ended the margin of each page is well filled with dates, time of payments made, and many other important events that occur during the year.

There are still others who could not cut timber, plow, sow, nor even plant without an Almanac as, say they, much depends on the "sign" in which all these things are done. The exact amount of influence the moon exerts over such things, our knowledge of the science of Astronomy doth not say, but while we are not careful about these things, we shall not interfere with the liberties of those who do.

Since the Almanac is such an important factor in the world's welfare it behooves us to do our best to put out a good one, for as diversified as are their uses, so their kinds and forms. Every patent medicine man who wishes to array his nostrums before the public must issue an annual Almanac, and generally finds it a safe investment, as in this way they can introduce their advertisements to families that could not be reached in any other way. Truly, the Almanac has gotten to be a great institution and has been made a very efficient auxiliary in introducing to the world such information, as those who make use of such means, think it ought to know.

Since then, it must be admitted that the Almanac is almost a universal household necessity it is important that on its pages should be borne, such matter as will be appropriate and beneficial to every christian home. In preparing matter for the Brethren's Almanac, we ever try to keep this thought in view, and only insert such matter as we think to be of use and instructive to its patrons.

HARD TO BE A CHRISTIAN.

Hard to be a Christian. Of course it is. But, whether you believe it or not, it is a great deal harder not to be one. That is to say, you have a harder time than if you were one. You have at least as many cares and trials as if you were a Christian, and as many temptations. Every sad and trying element of human life is manifested in your experience as often and as signally as it would be if you were one of Christ's followers; you thrust yourself inevitably upon many sharp points of evil habits which you might in that case escape; and you lack what a true Christian—however feeble and imperfect his success as yet may be—always possesses, the consciousness that his Creator and he are no longer working at cross purposes; that he is in harmony with God's will and plan for him; that omniscience, omnipotence and infinite love are occupied in shaping his circumstances so that, however painful that may be to-day, they are sure to prove full of blessing in the end. You may not think this consciousness a very solid advantage, but if you had it, in the sense that the Christians had it, you would.

Flesh is but the glass which holds the dust that measures all our time, which also shall be crumbled in dust.

THE OLD-FASHIONED PREACHER.

In these days of worldly progression there is a general disposition to get preachers to please the world rather than the church, and as a result, the world is satisfied to remain where it is. Not long since a minister preached a very interesting sermon. After the services closed, inquiries were made as to how the sermon was received. Replies from various members of the church revealed the fact that the sermon had made a very favorable impression upon them. But, when some of the unconverted were asked how they liked the sermon, they replied that the preacher was too "old-fashioned." This reply caused one, who was particularly interested in the matter, to reflect upon the evident reason for the rendering of such a verdict. It was not long before the following reason was assigned: The preacher had faithfully asserted the depravity of the human heart, and supported the assertion by Scriptural proof. He also endeavored to bring the minds of his hearers to the fact that the condition of the heart is fully open to the searching eyes of an omnipresent God.

In proof of this the Word of God was freely cited. The speaker declared, furthermore, that there is to be a judgment day, in which all men will be judged. For this Scriptural testimony was also adduced. Evidently solemn impressions were produced upon the unconverted portion of the audience. Their minds were made to view those truths which were not palatable to the unchanged heart. Hence, it was not surprising to know that the preacher was called "old-fashioned." Had he refrained from saying anything about human depravity and the fact that a Divine and holy eye always beholds it, and that a judgment day is coming in which men will be tried; and, instead of these unpleasant things, had sweetly spoken of the amiable qualities which may be found in all classes of persons, and that God is not careful to observe the actual state of the heart, but is willing to reckon man at his own estimate of himself, and therefore thus be his own judge, without an express tribunal at a future judgment day—had the preacher only talked in some such sentimental way, there is no doubt but that the phrase "old-fashioned would not have been used against him. Unconverted people like to hear compliments paid to human nature. They want a gospel which is made up of sentiments which may be easily set to the music that delights the carnal ear. They want to be well spoken of, even though they know that the Bible does nothing to favor it. They relegate the gospel of Christ to the early ages, when the race was rude and ignorant.

It is a new-fashioned gospel which such people want to hear. And he who will ignore the hard facts and truths of the Bible, which have their counterpart in the condition and experience of the human heart, and preaches such fanciful sentiments as captivate the carnal heart, is the man who receives the flattering compliments of the average, unconverted person. But brethren in the ministry, we cannot afford to betray the high trust which our Master has committed to our faithful keeping. He has given only one gospel to sinners, and that is always new. It will never become "old-fashioned." As we well speak of an old-fashioned Christ. The very thought is blasphemous. Let us stand true to its teachings, even though sinners dread their proclamation, and deride us as "old-fashioned preachers."

COMPASSION.

In Christ's life this is seen. Jesus said, "I have compassion on the multitude; they have nothing to eat; if sent away they will faint." Jesus had compassion on two blind men, and restored their eyes. Christ had compassion on the widow of Nain, and gave her back her son. Christ speaks of the Samaritan having compassion on the traveler. Parable of Prodigal Son: The father had compassion on the son. This is Christ's definition of compassion in his own life, in action and in parable; a yearning over the distressed and suffering; not a mere sentiment, but a doing—a multiplying of loaves and fishes for the hungry; the outstretched finger of healing for the blind; the word of life to the dead; the beast of burden; binding the wound; pouring the oil and wine; going to the inn; watching the sick and settling the bills; compassion to the stranger; running to meet, with clothes, food, and forgiveness for the repentant son. Christ's compassion is not a theory, a sentiment, a tear; but an act, a life. Not vapor built into castles on the mountain-tops, but steam driving the locomotive, is the world's need.—Rev O P Gifford.

WISE WORDS.

Faith and hope cure more diseases than medicine.

Hope is the brightest star in the firmament of youth.

The reward of doing one duty is the power to perform another.

The pleasure of doing good is the only one that never wears out.

It is upon the smooth ice we slip, the roughest path is safest.

Next to love, sympathy is the divinest passion of the human heart.

A noble part of every true life is to learn to undo what is wrong y done.

The very nature of love is to find its joy in serving others, not for one's own benefit but for theirs.

Pity is sworn servant unto love, and this be sure, wherever it begin to make the way, it lets the master in.

Fear of punishment and hope of reward moves cowards and sycophants. Virtue is independent of either.

The pleasantest things in the world are pleasant thoughts, and the greatest art in life is to have as many of them as possible.

Behind the snowy loaf is the millwheel, behind the mill the wheat field, on the wheat field falls the sunlight, above the sun is God.

Grief knits two hearts in closer bonds than happiness ever can; and common sufferings are far stronger links than common joys.

A good wife is like the ivy which beautifies the building to which it clings, twining its tendrils more lovingly as time converts the ancient edifice into a ruin.

Temptation is a fearful word. It indicates the beginning of a possible series of infinite evils. It is the ringing of an alarm bell, whose melancholy sounds may reverberate through eternity.

Home is not a name, nor a form nor a routine. It is a spirit, a presence, a principle. Material and method will not and cannot make it. It must get its light and sweetness from those who inhabit it, from flowers and sunshine.

BE INDEPENDENT.

There is nothing in the wide world that secures success so completely as does perfect independence. People who are always waiting for help may wait a long time, as a general thing. A little assistance, a little influence, is not to be had by asking; but there is always something one can do himself. Do it, whatever it is, with a will. One thing leads to another. If a young lady, don't sit still and hope a rich man will marry you, while your aged father toils for your daily bread. Learn how to help yourself, and take care of yourself as much as possible. Rather be one who does things for others, than one who must have things done for you. Two hands, two feet, sight and strength—these ought to enable you to dispense with help while you are young and vigorous. Men who can defy adverse circumstances, and can earn a living in any quarter of the world in which they are dropped down; who can roll up their sleeves, and set to work at almost anything that offers; and who can even sew on their own buttons, and make themselves a cup of tea when deprived of the help of womankind, are the ones who are really independent. The most helpful women are the kindest and truest, and as for a man, never trust him in any capacity if he has not within him the true spirit of independence, without which neither strength nor sweetness may be hoped for. In the battle of life there is but one way to succeed—fight it out yourself. Give the helping hand when you may. Take it, if in some sore strait it is offered freely, but never ask for it. Be independent as far as man may be if you would honor yourself, or be honored by others, or be happy.

AGUE CURE—INFALLIBLE.

Take 1 lb. of Blackroot, or Creluers physic, medical name Laptankrin.

1 ½ lbs. of wildcherry bark, (the inner bark.)

1 ½ lbs. of quackenasp bark “ “ “

1 ½ lbs. of prickly ash bark, off the root.

Steep in 1 gallon of soft water for two hours, in an earthen vessel; then strain off and simmer down to 1 quart. Add 1 ½ pints rum, brandy or rye whiskey when cool, to keep from souring, then bottle and cork. Dose, 1 tablespoonfull one hour before breakfast; 1 spoonful at noon, and 1 spoonful before going to bed, until a cure is effected, which will generally be in a few days. Increase or decrease the dose according to the strength or constitution of the patient.

THE NIMISHILLEN CHURCH.

I send you the following list of names of brethren and sisters of the Nimishillen congregation, of Starke county, Ohio, who took the meeting into their house or barn by regular turn, as their name stood on the list. A copy of the list is preserved by brother and sister David Hoover, of the Canton church, and is printed in German. This rotation of meetings was in effect for some years previous to 1825, when the Nimishillen congregation was divided, and the Canton church or congregation organized out of its territory. The list is as follows:

David Snyder,	Conrad Brumbaugh,
David Ebie,	William Hoover,
John Sheidler,	Peter Ebie,
Jacob Snyder,	Martin Houser,
Joseph Schneider,	Widow Thomas,
George Swinehart,	Andrew Christ,
Daniel Brown,	Jacob Funk,
Michael Flory,	Widow Leiser,
John Hershey,	David Bixler,
John Thomas,	Jacob Replogle,
Jacob Bauer,	John Garl,
Daniel Markley,	Daniel Bowser,
Joseph Showalter,

The membership of this congregation was then scattered over a large territory, but those who took the meeting living in widely different sections brought the meeting by turn within the reach of all its members. But as it was sometimes a long time before the meeting would come round, the people would frequently go a great ways on horseback or in heavy wagons, over new roads, and in consequence dinner and horse feed was always prepared for those who came to meeting.

I send you this as a matter of history for your Almanac, thinking it will be read with interest by many of the descendants of those who did so much for the cause of Zion in the early settlement of this country. I had also intended to prepare a list of ministers who officiated previous to 1825, but failed to get the dates of their order in time.

ADMISSIONS ABOUT BAPTISM.

Here are nine affirmations and admissions of a vital character touching the question of baptism:

- I. That Christ commanded immersion.
- II. That his command could not be understood by the Apostles in any other way.
- III. That Christ himself was immersed in water.
- IV. That his Apostles really did understand his command to enjoin immersion, and that they obeyed it by immersing.
- V. That trine immersion was the practice of the whole church in primitive times.
- VI. That immersion continued the general practice in the Western (or Romish) Church a long time.
- VII. That it was finally supplanted by sprinkling—a change which ought not to have been made.
- VIII. That Luther desired to restore immersion in baptism, but could not.
- IX. That his failure to restore it is to be regretted.

It is natural to suppose that those who make these admissions and affirmations believe in immersion. The world over consistency would require that they should. And yet these are the affirmations of five great pedobaptist theologians, made in a standard work on theology. They are statements of Drs. Storrs and Flatt, published without a word of dissent by Dr. Schmucker, aided by Moses Stuart and Prof. Murdock. These are all men of the greatest eminence, renowned for learning and ability. They belong, it is true, to the last generation, but they have few peers among the men of to-day. And they affirm substantially that the Baptists are right, and sprinkling is, indeed, an innovation, and an unfortunate one.

When after all these concessions, men will practice sprinkling; when professed followers of Jesus will reject immersion after hearing such statements from the friends and advocates of sprinkling, it is evident that they are not guided by a clear apprehension of the truth, but by sentiment, feeling and regard for popular opinion. There is not a cause that appeals to the people for acceptance that is so completely given away by its friends.

We can no more scold anyone into loving us than nature could make buds blossom by daily nipping them with frost.

HOW TO PREACH.

The following will do to read and study. It is printed for preachers :

Make no apologies. If you have the Lord's message, deliver it; if not, hold your peace. Have short prefaces and introductions. Say your best things first, and stop before you get prosy. Do not spoil the appetite for dinner by too much thin soup. Leave self out of the pulpit, and take Jesus in. Defend the gospel, and let the Lord defend you and your character. If you are lied about, thank the devil for putting you on guard, and take care that the glory shall never come true. Let your beard grow. Throw away your cravat. If you do not want to break, make your shirt collar an inch larger, and give your blood a chance to flow back to the heart. Do not run away from your hearers. Engine driving wheels fly fast with no load, but when they draw anything they go slower. It takes a cold hammer to bend a hot iron. Heat up the people, but keep the hammer cool.

Do not bawl nor scream. Too much water stops mill-wheels, and too much noise drowns sense. Empty vessels ring the loudest. Powder isn't shot. Thunder isn't lightning. Lightning kills. If you have lightning you can afford to thunder; but do not try to thunder out of an empty cloud.

Do not scold the people. Do not abuse the faithful souls who come to meeting rainy days because of the others who do not come. Preach the best to smallest assemblies. Jesus preached to one woman at the well, and she got all Samaria out to hear him next time. Ventilate your meeting-room. Sleeping in church is due to bad air oftener than to bad manners. Do not repeat, saying, "as I said before." If you said it before, say something else after. Leave out words you cannot define. Stop your declamation and talk to folks. Come down from sacred tones; become a little child. Change the subject if it goes hard. Do not tire yourself and everyone else out. Do not preach till the middle of your sermon buries the beginning, and is buried by the end. Look people in the face, and live so that you are not afraid of them. Take long breaths, fill your lungs, and keep them full—stop to breathe before the air is exhausted. Then you will not finish off each sentence-ah with a terrible gasp ah, as if you were dying for air-ah, as some preachers do-ah, and so strain their lungs-ah, and never find it out-ah, because their friends dare not tell them-ah, and so leave them to make sport for the Philistines-ah. Inflate your lungs. It is easier to run a mill with a full pond than an empty one. Be moderate at first. Hoist the gate a little way, when you are half through, raise a little more; when nearly done, put on a full head of water. Aim at the mark. Hit it. Stop and see where the shot struck, and then fire another broadside. Pack your sermons. Make your words like bullets. A board hurts a man worse if it strikes him edgewise.

FEAR OF POVERTY.

How many seem to spend much of their lives in the fear of poverty! They are constantly striving to lay up something "against the time of need," and are full of anxiety lest losses and misfortune should deprive them of their hoarded treasures. But, alas! how many seem to have no sort of fear of spiritual poverty, but are willing to spend their lives in a state of religious weakness, leanness, and starvation. The Lord has made provision that his people might have divine wealth, and that, though poor themselves, they make many rich with the durable riches of righteousness. And so to the Christian who wearies himself with seeking earthly gain, and whose heart is hungry, thirsty, burdened, and oppressed, Christ says, "I counsel thee to buy of me gold tried in the fire that thou mayest be rich." Happy are they who heed the gracious invitation, and gain the wealth and blessing which the Lord alone can give.

THE LORD'S PRAYER.

How many millions and millions of times has that prayer been offered by Christians of all denominations! So wide, indeed, is the sound thereof gone forth, that daily, and almost without intermission, from the ends of the earth, and afar off upon the sea, it is ascending to heaven like incense and a pure offering. Nor needs it the gift of prophecy to foretell that, though "heaven and earth shall pass away," these words of our blessed Lord "shall not pass away," till every petition in it has been answered—till the kingdom of God shall come, and His will be done on earth as it is in heaven.

A WORD TO CHILDREN.

Dear children, listen while I tell you something which deeply concerns your welfare. The subject is the shape of your bodies. God knew the best shape. He created us upright, in his own image. None of the inferior animals walk upright.

God fitted the great vital organs in your bodies to an erect spine. Do your shoulders ever stoop forward? If they do, so do your lungs, heart, liver and stomach fall down out of their natural places. Of course they can't do their work well. To show you how this is, I will tell you that when you bend forward you can take only about half as much air into the lungs as you can when you stand up straight. As I have said, God has so arranged the great organ in the body that they can't do their duty well except when the body is straight. Oh, how it distresses me to see the dear children, whom I love so much, bending over their school desks, and walking with their head and shoulders drooping! My dear children, if you would have a strong spine and vigorous lungs, heart, liver and stomach, you must, now while you are young, learn to walk erect.

If a boy were about to leave this country for Japan, never to return, and were to come to me and ask for rules to preserve his health, I should say, "I am glad to see you, and will give you four rules, which carefully observed, will be pretty sure to preserve your health." He might say to me, "Four are a good many; I fear I may forget some of them; give me one, the most important one, and I promise not to forget it." I should reply, "Well, my dear boy, if I can give you but one, it is this:

"Keep yourself straight—that is, sit up straight; walk up straight; and, when in bed, at night, don't put two or three pillows under your head, as though intent on watching your toes all night;" and I believe that in this I should give the most important rule that can be given for the preservation of health and long life.

My dear children, don't forget it.—Dio Lewis

SENSATIONAL LITERATURE.

When we look for a moment at the mass of fictitious reading that is flung out broadcast over the world, can we wonder that the young so early wander away in the paths of vice, or that the vile dens in our cities, that are seething in impurity, are peopled with wrecked manhood and fallen womanhood? We look in astonishment at the evidences of blighted intellects, lost virtue, and ruined lives; and yet how many of these learned their first lesson in vice at home, over the pages of some impure novel! In how many of our homes does the Bible lie, all covered with dust from disuse, while dime novels are eagerly read by parents and children day after day! And I have seen professed Christian parents remain away from the house of God, to read a weekly journal burdened with impure thoughts, to feed the imagination and the heart.

Parents, you cannot keep your homes too pure. If the young heart is not educated to love purity, it will love sin and follow after it: and if you crowd your libraries with fiction, and pervert your own lives by its perusal, how can you expect to lead your children heavenward?

The young gain more education from novels to-day, than from the sciences. They pore over the unchaste pages, and shed fountains of tears over some luckless heroine that never lived, and whose counterpart never will live; but they have no sympathy for the sorrows of a beggared widow or orphan, and their hearts are unmoved at the sight of actual human suffering.

Can it be that those to whom God has given ten talents, will waste them all in wrecking humanity? Shall they be willing, for dollars and cents, to send young souls, reeling beneath a burden of shame, into penitentiaries, dance-houses and grogeries? Will it pay at the bar of God?—Rural New Yorker.

NAMES TAKEN FROM TRADES.

The Baxters belong to the same class as the Masons, the Carpenters, the Taylors, the Smiths, the Gardiners and the Fullers. In fact, the surnames derived from trades or occupations are more numerous than those of any other class, except patronymics and place names. Some of them belong to existing trades, like those quoted above, while others represent obsolete trades, or at least obsolete trade terminology, like the Fletchers or arrow-makers, the Arblasters, who manufactured cross-bows or arblasts (arcubalis, tæ), and the Tuckers, who worked in the tucking mills, where cloth was prepared for market.

JUPITER is in Conjunction with the Sun the 5th, and cannot be seen.

Those who wish for further information upon these subjects cannot do better than turn to Mr. Bardsley's excellent and systematic work on English surnames. A man who bakes is called a Baker; but in earlier times a woman who baked was called a Bakester, or Baxter. So a man who brews is a Brewer while a woman who brews is a Brewster. In mediæval English the termination "ster" was a feminine one; and it still survives with its primitive signification in spinster. A huckster was originally a market-woman, but the word has now come to mean anybody, male or female, who hawks about goods in the public streets. The same change has come over maltster, throwster, and many other analogous words. But sundry surnames will show us the two forms side by side, as in Webber and Webster. Hence we may conclude that the ancestor of all the Baxters was a woman who kept a bakehouse. Why her descendants should take their name from her rather than from their father is easy enough to understand on a number of natural hypotheses. Joan Baxter may in one place have been a widow woman, whose children would, of course, be called after her; in another place she might be a person of some character, while her husband was a field laborer or a ne'er-do-well, and in another, again, there might be two Piers Gardiners or two Wat Carters in the same village, so that it might be more convenient to describe the youngsters by their mother's calling than by their father's.—Cornhill Magazine

THE POPULATION OF THE EARTH.

In the new edition of Behm & Wagner's Bevolkerung der Erde the total population of the globe is estimated 1,433,887,500. It is only two years since the last issue of the work, and then the estimate was 1,455,923,500, showing an apparent decrease in two years of almost 22,000,000. This at first seems strange, especially as the recent censuses of all the great countries show an increase of 32,000,000 over the previous numbers. The apparent discrepancy is accounted for by the fact that the editors of the Bevolkerung, on a careful revision of all the information as to the population of China, have come to the conclusion that their former estimate was far too high, and that, instead of that vast Empire having a population of over 430,000,000, it does not much exceed 370,000,000, with all its dependent territories. There has thus been an actual increase of about 38,000,000 in the population of the globe—an increase, however, which must be spread over ten years, as many of the recent censuses are decennial. For Europe the present population is rated at 327,743,400, showing an increase of about 12,000,000 over the previous figures by the operation of the censuses. In Asia, making allowances for the readjustment of the population of China, there has been an increase of 20,000,000, the present population being set down at 795,591,000. Of this the Indian Empire claims about one-third, while all the vast territory of Russia in Asia supports a population of only about 14½ millions. The Central Asian possessions of Russia have a population of only five millions. With regard to the Corea, whose inhabitants have been estimated at various figures from 7 to 16 millions. Messrs. Behm & Wagner give 8½ millions as probably near the truth. The population of Persia they have reduced, on the basis of recent information, from 8½ millions to little more than 7½ millions.—St James Gazette.

FACTS FOR THE CURIOUS.

Nineveh was fourteen miles long, eight miles wide, and forty-six miles around, with a wall 100 feet high, and thick enough for three chariots abreast.

Babylon was fifty miles within its walls, which were seventy-five feet thick and 100 feet high, with 100 brazen gates.

The Temple of Diana at Ephesus was 420 feet to the support of the roof—it was 100 years in building.

The largest of the pyramids was 481 feet in height and 853 feet on the sides. The base covered eleven acres. The stones are about 60 feet in length, and the layers are 208. It employed 350,000 men in building. The labyrinth in Egypt contained 300 chambers and twelve halls.

Thebes, in Egypt, presents ruins twenty-seven miles around, and contained 450,000 citizens and 400,000 slaves.

The Temple of Delphos was so rich in donations that it was plundered of $50,000,000, and the Emperor Nero carried away from it 200 statues.

The walls of Rome were thirteen miles around.

AT SET OF SUN.

If we sit down at set of sun
And count the things that we have done,
And, counting, find
One self-denying act, one word
That eased the heart of him who heard;
One glance most kind
That fell like sunshine where it went,
Then we may count the day well spent.

But if through all the livelong day
We've eased no heart by yea or nay;
If through it all
We've done no thing that we can trace
That brought the sunshine to a face;
No act, most small,
That helped some soul and nothing cost,
Then count that day as worse than lost.

OLD AND YOUNG.

It is always sad to see the old and young dissociated from each other, especially in home life. Sometimes parents and children have no common enjoyments, and meet only in a formal restricted way, even at the family board. The old take no interest in the young, and the young feel under restraint and are anxious to get away from the old. Even the pleasures enjoyed under the roof-tree are in separate apartments—those who are advanced in life retiring to get away from the “annoyances,” and the youngsters counting it morally certain that there can be no fun until the old folks are in bed. Outsiders more equally mated in years are preferred as associates to those who may be bound together by the ties of flesh and blood, and the young especially often find their greatest enjoyments in houses of mere acquaintances, or in public halls, or on the streets.

As a rule, this is demoralizing to the young. It is a sad thing when a growing girl feels impelled to turn away from her mother in seeking a confidant; or when a boy has no encouragement to talk freely to his father; and this is all the worse when the subject that engrosses the young mind and heart is of such a nature that there is a disposition to hide it from the parent.

But this dissociation adds to the desolations of age. Many a parent is lonely with his house full of children and childrens' children. It is said to be a sign of decay when a man loses interest in the present and lives only in the past. His friends are gone and he feeds on memories of earlier years, which are fresher to him than the things of yesterday. Generations pass away as it were in blocks or sections, without being linked on to those who are coming after them. The father divides his estate and creeps to his grave like old King Lear, disgusted with the world and disappointed in his children—perhaps because he was never near enough to them to understand them, and desolate must he be indeed, unless his faith lays hold of something more satisfactory in the future.

These difficulties would be largely obviated if homes were made more attractive, and the joys of old and young were put in nearer accord. Especially should Christian joys enter into all the relations of home life.

A STRANGE TRADITION.

Among the Seminole Indians there is a strange tradition regarding the white man's origin and superiority. They say that when the Great Spirit made the earth He also made three men, all of whom were fair complexioned, and that after making them He led them to the margin of a small lake and bade them leap in and wash. One obeyed and came out purer and fairer than before; the second hesitated a moment, during which time the water, agitated by the first, had become muddled, and when he bathed he came out copper colored; the third did not leap in until the water became black with mud, and he came out dark in color. Then the Great Spirit laid before them three packages, and out of pity for his misfortune in color, gave the black man the first choice. He took hold of each of the packages, and having felt the weight, chose the heaviest; the copper-colored man chose the next heaviest, leaving the white man the lightest. When the packages were opened the first was found to contain spades, hoes and all the implements of labor; the second enwrapped hunting, fishing and warlike apparatus; the third gave the white man pens, ink and paper, the engine of the mind, the means of mutual mental improvement, the foundation of the white man's superiority.

The best recipe for going through life in a commendable way is to feel that everybody, no matter how rich or how poor, needs all the kindness they can get from others in the world.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF ELDER GEORGE PHILIP ROTHENBERGER.

I have been requested to write a biographical sketch of my father, George Philip Rothenberger, who departed this life Oct. 30, 1881, in the 80th year of his age.

He was born at Partenheim, Hessen Darmstadt, Germany, Aug. 1802. His parents were of the Lutheran faith and he was christened and confirmed in that church. His father died when he was twelve years old, and his mother afterward married a man who proved to be a very cruel step father, who mistreated his wife and her children in such a manner that my father left his home when only seventeen years of age, and traveled as a journeyman blacksmith over several countries of Europe, and at last arrived in Switzerland, where he married in 1826, and made his home in the Canton of Zurich. He became a naturalized citizen of the above named place and became identified with the German Reformed Church, as there was no Lutheran Church there. The Church, however, was corrupt, as Church and State were united, and the ministers received their pay from the government of the Canton. Father saw the necessity of living a different life, and he and my mother joined a sect which was started by a man who was once a minister of the German Reformed Church. His name was Froehlich. They at first did not separate themselves entirely from the old Church, but continued to attend its meetings, and to have the children baptized as before. They, however, held meetings of their own also, and led altogether a different life. They were noted for their piety and had to endure severe persecution. They at last separated themselves entirely from the established Church, and denounced infant baptism, oaths, military service, &c. They dressed plainly, and saluted each other with a kiss just as the Brethren do. All who had been baptized in infancy were required to be baptized again as believers. Their mode, however, was trine sprinkling. They were nicknamed Wiedertauffer, which means rebaptizers, because they rebaptized those who had been baptized in the established Church in their infancy. They called themselves "Glaubige," which means believers.

Father had become a noted minister among them. He began to advocate baptism by immersion, and was reproved by some other ministers for doing so in a discourse which he preached in 1838. He stated in that discourse that immersion was the only apostolic baptism. He, however, had never seen it practiced, and did not know that it was practiced anywhere at that time. In the year A. D. 1839, Elder Henry Kurtz went to visit his father in the kingdom of Wurtzburg, Germany. He also came into Switzerland. I recollect him distinctly. He came to father's about Easter. I first saw him at the house of my grandfather. He preached several times in that vicinity and baptized quite a number, my father being the first. Mr. Froelich heard of it and wrote quite a long letter to the church, in which he denounced brother Kurtz as a deceiver, and by a series of arguments succeeded in winning back quite a number of those who had been immersed by brother Kurtz. Father, with a few others, remained fixed. He continued to hold meetings at our house, and at other places. He was severely persecuted. Once he was nearly killed. He was actually left for dead not far from his own house. His beard was pulled out. Father and brother Kurtz kept up correspondence which resulted in our coming to the United States, where he labored among the brethren as a minister for forty years. He traveled very extensively and sold books among the brethren. Soon after coming to the United States he lost his second wife. She was buried on the farm of Eld. George Shively, in Starke county, Ohio. He was again married in 1842 to Mary Kleisly, who accompanied us to the United States.

In 1845 father moved with his family to Carroll county, Indiana, and in 1851 to Kosciusco county where he died last October. His third wife died in October, 1871. He was married again in 1872. She survives him and is in her 82nd year. He left two sons and two daughters and numerous grand-children. One of his sons, Daniel, is a minister. Father kept up his family worship. May we all follow in his footsteps. His desire for a long time was to depart and be with Christ.

I should have stated that this minister, Mr. Froelich adopted immersion himself and organized several churches, baptizing all the members by trine immersion.

MINISTERIAL LIST.

On account of the unsettled condition of the church at this time, it was a question with us as to how we should arrange the list in regard to those who have separated themselves from us. Some thought we should drop all but those who are recognized as being loyal to the general brotherhood. As we could not do this with the knowledge we had, and as we still hope that our difficulties may yet be amicably adjusted, we thought it best to retain the full list and mark those who have gone off to the "Old Order Brethren" with a star, thus *; and the "Progressives" with a dagger, thus †. We do not claim that our marking is strictly correct, but it is as nearly so as could be made under existing circumstances.
